Use Variance Asked To Convert Mansion Into Writer's Center

A request for a use variance to conduct a writers' center at a stone mansion on Drakes Corner Road is on the Township Zoning Board of Adjustment agenda this Wednesday.

Olivia Cox-Fill, owner of the property, is seeking a variance to use most of the main house as a place to which up to 16 established or aspiring writers would come for five-day periods to work on a project and receive input from professionals. The plan is to have two established writers available for one-on-one consultations throughout the session as well as a guest reader who would participate in evening readings with the entire group. A fee of $500 would be charged for each session.

The center, called Twin Elms Writers' Center, is modelled on the Arvon Foundation in Britain, which runs three such centers in various parts of England. It has recently opened a fourth in Scotland. Formed in 1968, the Arvon Foundation gives writers "the opportunity to meet and work with their peers and to benefit from the expertise of established writers in their disciplines," according to information in support of the Twin Elms Writers' Center use

No Firehouse Bidders: Auction Is Cancelled

The auction of the Chambers Street firehouse — scheduled for 7 p.m. on Tuesday, July 27 — was cancelled early that afternoon. The reason: no registered bidders. The one couple who had registered told Borough Administrator Thomas Shannon that they would not be able to make the minimum bid.

This was to have been the second attempt to auction the firehouse. The first auction, held in November

Princeton Borough Police Department Hires Its Second Female and First Hispanic Officer

The Borough Police Department's goal of increasing the number of minority and female officers moved forward last week with the hiring of a second female officer and the department's first Hispanic officer.

A third officer, a white male, was also hired. The police department will not release the names of the three until the medical background review is completed.

The Borough had originally planned to hire only two additional officers, but Borough Council moved quickly at its Thursday night meeting to add a third, the Hispanic candidate, to the list.

Councilman Roger Martindell and several members of the audience spoke of the critical need for a Spanish-speaking person on the police force. Several officers have received training in Spanish, but none speaks fluently. There was also some concern that the Hispanic man — who would have become the next to be hired — might accept another job in the meantime.

This was what happened to the first person on the list, an African-American man. When he was called and offered the job, he said he had already accepted employment elsewhere.

There is currently one vacancy in the police department, and at least one retirement is expected soon. Further retirements are anticipated next year.

"Maybe for six months we'll be overstaffed by one officer," said Mayor Marvin Reed. "That will make up for the times we have been one short for six months. I have always argued that when we go through this lengthy procedure of hiring we should hire one or two more than we need. They have to go to school, and we end up carrying vacancies."

There are currently 31 officers on the Borough police force. Of these, two are African-American males, one is a female, and one is an Indian male.

In preparation for the current hiring, the Borough police launched an intensive effort to increase the number of minorities and females taking the test. They visited colleges and job fairs where they knew there would be minorities. Officer Carol Raymond was often present to talk to women.

As a result of these efforts, more than a third of the 450 people who took the written exam were either females or minorities.

The field was winnowed first to the 260 who took the physical fitness test, and then to about 120 who passed both tests. Next came screening and evaluation by the Borough police, which led to a final field of 13 candidates. Of these, four were white males, four were

Last Minute Accord Postpones Hearing On Hospital Garage

A last-minute agreement between attorneys for Princeton Medical Center and neighbors who are objecting to expansion of the parking garage has resulted in the postponement of the Township Zoning Board's review of a scaled-back version of the garage this Wednesday.

According to Christopher Tarr, attorney for Princeton Medical Center, the board will review the application at a special meeting tentatively scheduled for September 14. However, before it can even begin reviewing key site plan issues such as bulk and landscaping, it is likely to be confronted with a jurisdictional issue.

In a letter to the Zoning Board dated July 23, Richard Goldman, attorney for the neighbors' group, People for the Preservation of Residential Princeton, says that the modified garage proposal should be "stricken" from the Zoning Board agenda. He writes that legally "No action can be taken on an application

Council to Interview In Full Salary Range For Rights Director

Borough Council last week agreed it would not restrict the salary of a new civil rights director to the bottom of the scale, but would interview people within the full range of $25,509 to $36,000.

The discussion of salary came three days after the Monday morning resignation of Civil Rights Commission Chair Michael Jimenez. He said he acted to protest a lack of commitment to civil rights on the part of Borough Council when it apparently refused, in closed session, to hire a candidate for the job at a salary much above the bottom of the scale.

Firehouse Sale

1992, resulted in a $500,000 bid from Rysia de Itavel. She ducked out of the deal in May, however, by advising Mayor and Council that she could not get the easement necessary to meet Borough fire codes.

When the second auction was set up, this loophole was removed and a minimum bid of $500,000 established. But no one bid.

According to State law, the firehouse must be sold at auction. The Borough and Township are planning to use the proceeds of the sale of the empty Chambers Street firehouse to offset the cost of the new $2 million firehouse on Witherspoon Street.

Having suffered two strikes on the auction block, the Borough has to consider what to do next. This was expected to be discussed at the Borough Council meeting scheduled for Tuesday night, July 27.

There are several options, said Borough Attorney Michael Herbert. Council can set up another auction, perhaps with different terms, or it can consider trying to have the firehouse used by a public agency.

A third option would be to approve something akin to a declaration of blight. This would state that, in effect, the property is in need of rehabilitation. The Borough could then enter into negotiations with a developer on the site.

"We have been strait-jacketed from day one by an anachronistic law that does not allow us to negotiate with any degree of flexibility," said Mr. Herbert. "This is combined with the commitment made to the Township [in April 1991] that the proceeds of anything we do must be applied to the firehouse."

"This is the most frustrating thing I've encountered in 23 years of practice," Mr. Herbert said.

variance application at the Zoning Board.

The house in which this would take place is set well back from Drakes Corner Road on a 29-acre parcel of land. The imposing stone farmhouse with two wings was built in the 1930s by the late Leighton I. and Roberta H. Laughlin as their family home. It was purchased by Dennis Fill, former president of E.R. Squibb & Sons, and his wife in the 1970s. The Fills have since divorced, and Mr. Fill has moved to Seattle.

The house has exposed beams, wide pumpkin pine floors, antique paneling, leaded windows and many open fireplaces. The center portion contains four double bedrooms in addition to the master bedroom suite capable of sleeping six. There is an apartment with living room, kitchen, and sleeping porch on the second floor of the east wing, and another apartment with study on the ground floor which will be used by the two tutors.

The west wing apartment with living room, dining room and bedroom, all with fireplaces, will be reserved for Ms. Cox-Fill and her two children. A guest house with three bedrooms will be used as staff housing.

Old stone walls and post and rail fences provide the backdrop for informal perennial gardens and a lilac grove. There is also an English rose garden, a tennis court and swimming pool, a spring-fed pond, a riding ring, stables and three paddocks, according to the information supplied with the use variance application. The application was filed May 24. A note dated June 22, 1993 signed "Drakes Corner Association" and attached to a newspaper article describing the fall course offerings, was sent to the Township Zoning Officer. The note asks, "Is it possible that a commercial enterprise such as a writers' center with paid rooms, meals, classes, etc. can be run in a residential district? It must be illegal. Please stop this abuse."

Writers' Center "Low Key"

Amy LaMotte, chair of the management committee that oversees the operation of the center, said Tuesday she did not think there would be much objection to the request because a writers' center is such a "low key" use, as she put it. The house is not readily visible from the road and has plenty of parking.

The sessions would be held in the spring and fall, Ms. LaMotte said. Two trial planning sessions were held in April, before Ms. Cox-Fill became aware, through her attorney, that she would have to obtain a use variance.

If the variance is granted, the first regular session, entitled "The Writer's Life: Inspiration vs. Discipline," would be held September 15 through 20. The teachers will be novelists Carolyn Slaughter and Paul Watkins, with novelist Toni Morrison as the guest reader.

Subsequent offerings include "Poetry and Prose," with Judith Moffett and Daniel Weissbort; "Screen Writing" with Peter Benchley and Howard Schuman; "Poetry," with Alan Jenkins and Paul Muldoon as teachers and Amy Clampitt as guest reader; "Making Scenes: A Course in Playwriting," with Michael Hastings and Doug Wright; and "Writing into Ignorance: A Course in Fiction," with Tom Spanbauer and Matthew Stadler, and Jane Shapiro as guest reader.

The resident directors of Twin Elms Writers' Center are Katri Skala and Alexandra Cadell, who were not available for comment on Tuesday. Martha Vaughan, a Drakes Corner Road neighbor, said she would rather see the property used for something with an educational focus, such as a writers' center, than have it purchased by a developer and broken up into building lots.

"This is a very special area up here," Mrs. Vaughan said. "I hope she [Olivia Cox-Fill] can hang on to that beautiful property and maintain it as it is."

Township Adopts Budget With Reduced Tax Rate

In a brief special meeting Monday night, Township Committee voted 4 to 1 to adopt a budget that would allot $128,370 in gross receipts and franchise revenue to reducing the tax rate by one cent rather than putting the money in surplus or use it for capital projects. Deputy Mayor Phyllis Marchand voted against a budget constructed along these lines.

In contrast to the previous week, when residents of Brooks Bend spoke out strongly against the budget in general and any raise in taxes, there was very little public comment. Former Committeeman William Cherry asked if Committee had set aside adequate funds for meeting the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), which goes into effect on January 1, 1995. He was assured that the 1993 budget contains more than $200,000 which can be used as down payment for capital improvements, and that even with the two bond ordinances that are up for public hearing on August 16, the Township has the capacity to bond up to $5 million worth of capital improvements.

Mr. Cherry also asked Committee to look carefully at whether it has to comply with other state and federal building codes, such as BOCA and OSHA codes, at the same time it is having to meet the ADA requirements.

The 1993 Princeton Township municipal budget totals $17 million. The tax rate, which earlier had been projected to be 89 cents per $100 of assessed value, will be 88 cents per $100 of assessed value, up three cents instead of four from the 1992 tax rate of 85 cents. The major increases in the 1993 budget are attributed to debt service costs, salary adjustments, contribution to the capital improvement fund and an increase in the reserve for uncollected taxes.

No date has been set for sending out the tax bills, but Township taxpayers will be given a time extension in which to pay the third quarter bill that is normally due on August 1.

In other business, Marshall A. Provost, 30, of East Windsor, was appointed a patrol officer in the Township Police Department. Patrolman Provost is the third new police officer named to the department in recent months.

He was sworn in on Monday and will begin training at the Somerset County Police Academy next month.

pleaded guilty to one charge of third degree arson in May and thus avoided a prison term. He admitted setting fire to a $400,000 house on Route 518 in Hopewell Township on October 25, 1991, which caused $3,400 in damage. He confessed to Judge Sapp-Peterson that he had been drinking the night he entered the house and set it afire.

Judge Sapp-Peterson sentenced Evans to five years probation, 200 hours of community service and ordered him to pay $3,668 in restitution. She also told him he had to undergo psychiatric treatment.
According to Assistant Prosecutor Timothy McNamara, Evans, a volunteer fireman, was already at the scene of the Route 518 fire when other firefighters arrived and he helped them put out the blaze. "He wanted to be a hero. The fire just massaged his ego."
Although Mr. McNamara declined to comment on whether Evans is a suspect in as many as 54 fires that were set in the area in the first ten months of 1991, he acknowledged that the fires were still being actively investigated. As part of his plea bargain, Evans was charged with just the one fire.

Road Safety Meeting
The West Windsor Road Safety Committee, which is concerned with the dangerous intersection at the corner of Hightstown Road (Route 571) and South Mill Road (Route 526), will hold an open meeting at the West Windsor library on Wednesday, July 28, at 7 p.m.
Everyone is invited to the meeting at which the ideas to improve the intersection will be reviewed and new ideas solicited. Written suggestions may be submitted to "Road Safety," 1 Rumford Way, Princeton Junction 08550.

Deposit Not Recorded; Police Are Investigating
A cash deposit of $1,768 by a restaurant employee at a night deposit drop, which a Nassau Street bank says it never received, is being investigated by Borough police.
According to Capt. Peter Hanley, a female assistant manager left the restaurant at 3 on the afternoon of July 16, claimed to have made the deposit and returned to work. A few days later, the report came that the deposit was never recorded. Police were notified last Wednesday.
"We're into the preliminary stages of the investigation," said Capt. Hanley. "We have no reason, at this point, to disbelieve the employee; that's why we're still investigating."
Capt. Hanley said it is not clear whether the bank notified the restaurant or vice versa. Both are located on Nassau Street, but he declined to identify either one.
A similar incident involving a night deposit at a Nassau Street bank occurred several months ago, Capt. Hanley commented. That incident was never resolved.

Bogus Traveler's Check
An incident of theft by deception took place this month at a clothing store on Nassau Street. On the 11th, a customer presented a $100 Visa Traveler's Check to pay for a purchase.

the store was later notified that the check was not valid. Police were informed of the incident on Monday.
"We believe it was a photocopy of a traveler's check," said Capt. Hanley. Both signatures on the check are illegible, he added, and those in the store can't recall anything about the suspect.

Driver, Rider Charged After Motor Vehicle Stop
The driver of a car stopped Saturday for speeding 46 miles per hour in a 35-mile zone on Nassau Street was later charged with driving while intoxicated and his passenger with possession of marijuana.
Ptl. Curtis Vanchoff made the stop at 2:27 in the morning. After detecting an odor of alcohol and observing the speech patterns of the driver, he arrested Malcolm Lloyd, 22, of North Conway, N.H. Lloyd was also charged with refusing to take a breath test and with speeding. He was later released after posting $250 bail.

During a standard search of the car, Ptl. Vanchoff uncovered a plastic bag containing marijuana between the two front seats. He charged the passenger, Anthony Golsorkhi, 20, of Bryn Mawr, Pa. with possession of less than 50 grams of a controlled dangerous substance.
After processing, Golsorkhi was later released in his own recognizance, pending an appearance in Borough court.

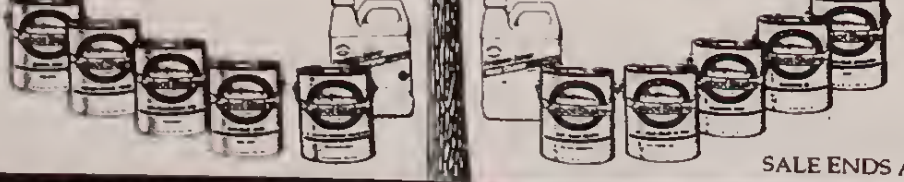

Former Student Is Jailed For Role in Car Fatality
Former Hun School student Scot Gordon, 22, began serving a 364-day jail sentence Monday for causing the death of a bride of three months in a car accident on Route 206 in Lawrence Township in July, 1989.
In a six-hour sentencing hearing last week in Superior Court, Judge Paulette Sapp-Peterson sentenced Gordon to a year in jail of which he would

Performance Thursday Ends Summer Program

Summer Stuff will bring its second year to a close with a performance of music and drama Thursday at 7:30 in the Herbert McAneny Theater at Princeton Day School.

Emphasizing language arts, the month-long program at PDS for public school children from Trenton provides small-group instruction in reading, writing, and speaking. Enriching and underscoring the regular classroom work are instruction in music, art, computer and drama.

Entering sixth graders will enact improvisational skits based on stories from D'Aulaire's Book of Greek Myths. They will also present a medley on songs on recorder and xylophone, directed by Louise McClure. Entering seventh graders who have been researching factual material about countries from around the world will present a longer play based on some of what they have learned.

Their play describes the adventures of two brothers as they journey around the world, witnessing among other sights, African dance, a Spanish bullfight, and French cooking. Under the auspices of "Center Stage," the Summer Stuff thespians are directed by professional actors Tom von Oehsen and Ev Therrien.

Parents, relatives, and friends who attend will also see Greek columns with specially designed capitals, drawn and SUMMER IS A TIME TO LEARN NEW THINGS: Summer Stuff students at Princeton Day School, Dennis Guevara and Keidrick Davis, get some pointers about medieval harps from guest artist Ellen Tepper, while their fellow student, Faith Murray, experiments with Mrs. Tepper's celtic harp. Summer Stuff is a month-long program for public school students from Trenton.

Also displayed on classroom bulletin boards will be booklets created by the students. One is a collection of original poetry by both grades in reaction to Nikki Giovanni's Ego-Tripping. Another is a collection of original creation myths explaining the world of nature. Older students have written travel brochures for several countries including Brazil, Liberia, Japan, and South Africa.

Teaching the younger students are Gwendolyn Reed and Bonnie Howarth, upper school English teachers who began Summer Stuff last year. Working with the older children on language arts are PDS teachers Chris Hart and Matilde Yorkshire.

Photos on the wall testify to the hard work and good times of this year's summer stuffers. In each grade students divided into two groups and named themselves. Onyx-pected, B.L.A.K (Black, Latino, Academic Kids), Bi-Onyx, and Individuals shared jobs such as food patrol and clean-up.

They competed in a RAP session and a field day. In computer they traveled the Oregon Trail or chased Carmen Santiago around the world, as well as practiced keyboarding and word-processing skills. Older students experimented with harp and with drums.

Eight student interns, upper school students at PDS, also helped with the program. Kelli Irvin, Adaishala Hendrix, Travis Gilliam, and Danielle Warren worked with the younger group. Salena Marshall, Zanetta Shannon, Eric Boyd, and Kevin Maldonado assisted with the older group.

Made possible by a grant from the J. Seward Johnson Sr. Charitable Trusts, the program is designed to improve reading and writing skills of middle-ability students who will participate for three consecutive summers. The City of Trenton supplies breakfast, lunches, and snacks through the Summer Feeding Program directed by Larry Cain

The goal of "Summer Stuff" is to build self-esteem and improve academic performance by sharing Princeton Day School's facilities and staff with non-PDS students. Teachers and interns had many opportunities to work with students in very small groups and a lot of learning happened in one short month.

have to serve nine months before being paroled. Judge Sapp-Peterson also placed Gordon on probation for three years and ordered him to perform 300 hours of community service when his sentence is up

Gordon was the driver of a Jeep which crashed head on into a car driven by Sussex County landscape architect David Wagner and his wife of three months, Ann Wagner. Mrs. Wagner died at the scene from head and internal injuries.

Gordon, now a student at the University of Pittsburgh, and his passenger, George Cole, were allegedly high after sniffing the fumes from a freon-based can of gum remover. Neither Gordon nor Cole was injured. A second passenger, Jerry Poblete, had been dropped off shortly before the accident. All three were standout lacrosse players at Hun.

Witnesses told police they saw Gordon and Cole hide the can behind a tree after the accident. Since the tragedy, Gordon has steadfastly maintained that he couldn't remember if he was high on freon at the time. In February, a jury convicted Gordon on a charge of death by auto. The maximum sentence for such a charge is five years.

At the sentence hearing, Gordon's attorney, Paul Nittoly, asked Judge Sapp-Patterson not to include a jail term in her sentence and that his client be permitted to serve his community service at the family summer home in Cape May. The request was rejected by Judge Sapp-Peterson, who said some prison time was warranted. "Sentencing is not just about rehabilitation, it's also about punishment."

She came down hard on Gordon, pointing out he stood at the accident scene and did nothing. "He did not flag down another car, he did not run to a nearby house and he did not try to help the victims. The only thing he did was try to conceal a can of freon."

Calling himself a jerk, Gordon told Judge Sapp-Peterson, "I realize I destroyed something special. For whatever it's worth, I'm very sorry."

3 Teenagers Suspects In Car Trunk Robbery

Three white teenagers between 15 and 17, wearing haschall caps and T-shirts, are suspects in a theft Monday at the Uptown Parking Garage, 2-4 Nassau Street.

They were seen rummaging through the trunk of a 1991 Nissan by a witness and when they saw the witness they fled. Taken from the trunk was a Pentax zoom camera valued at $250, a Polaroid camera worth $125, a belt and a flashlight. The last three items were recovered in a stairway by the investigating officer Ptl. Steve Riccitello.

The driver, a resident of Hopewell, told police that she had parked her car around 2:30. Said Capt. Peter Hanley, "We believe the victim, in getting out of her car, accidentally tripped the trunk lid release handle, since the car doors were still locked and there was no sign of any forced entry to the car or the trunk."

Later in the afternoon, around 4:30, three youths were seen setting fire to a box of books in a corner of the garage. Some of the books were burned before firemen arrived and put out the blaze and prevented it from spreading.

A Pine Street resident told police that a thief stole her purse containing $200 from the front seat of her unlocked 1993 Toyota while it was parked last week on Patton Avenue.

A Lawrenceville resident listed the theft of his helmet and gloves hanging from the back seat of his motorcycle while it was parked last week at the rear of St. Paul's Church on Nassau Street. He valued both at $150.

"BROWNIE"

They call me "Brownie," but I'm really black and tan. If you know your dogs, you'll discover my Pointer and Shepherd relatives. I carry on their lines with pride. And am I staunch. Anyone who needs a watchdog won't be disappointed in me. I am a trusty sentry. My fierceness is only for the threatening. My heart and soul are gentleness itself.

I'm only two years old, but am I street smart. After all that experience in West Windsor, nobody puts anything over on me! If you have some property to be defended, just let me strut my stuff! And in the peaceful hours, you will see how special I can be in all the other ways of dogs and people. Outdoors is my realm, and I need you to return me to it soon.

Car Is Disabled by Fire At Nassau & Vandeventer

While a 19-year-old Somerset resident was driving on Nassau Street a few minutes before eight Monday morning, she noticed smoke coming from the engine compartment of her 1987 Taurus as she approached Vandeventer.

She pulled over to the curb. Volunteer fireman Rick McKee tried to put out the fire with a patrol car extinguisher but was unsuccessful. It was put out by firemen but not before the car had to be towed to Larini's Service Center on Alexander Street.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Gifts to Lawrenceville For Teaching Chairs

The Lawrenceville School has announced recent gifts of more than $8 million for faculty salaries which will be used to endow nine teaching chairs at Lawrenceville. The contributions are part of the school's national Leadership Campaign, the largest in the history of secondary education, which aims to raise $125 million over a five-year period.

After one year of the five-year campaign, Lawrenceville has raised more than $62 million in cash and pledges, reaching the half-way mark. Among the campaign gifts, more than $51.3 million is earmarked for increased faculty compensation, of which more than $25 million has been reached. Other campaign goals include increased financial aid, a new library, music building, and renovated science and fine arts facilities.

LOCK-UP FOR A GOOD CAUSE: Borough Police Chief Thomas Michaud, left, fastens the "cell" at the Princeton Hyatt in which Malcolm Wernik, vice president, Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey spent the better part of a day recently making phone calls to raise "bail," funds that are available to assist needy Presbyterian Homes' residents.

Fund Raiser a Success For Presbyterian Homes

Mal Wernik, senior vice president at The Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey, went to jail recently during a Jail-a-thon for the benefit of the Fellowship Fund. By the end of the day, the generous participation of many caring and interested people helped Mr. Wernik collect more than $230,000 for the support of needy residents - four times the amount set for his bail. At 10 a.m. he reported to the specially prepared cell at the Princeton Hyatt Regency Hotel to spend more than four hours behind bars. He donned his distinctive black and white striped suit and the door closed behind him.

These were not idle hours for Mr. Wernik - in fact he was very busy trying to raise money to meet his bail of $50,000. He had a telephone at hand to call friends of the Foundation and business associates to ask for their assistance in his cause. Interested friends and business associates stopped by to see Mr. Wernik in his unusual setting and made donations to help his release. The bail money goes directly to the Fellowship Fund of the Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey Foundation. The Fund provides support to residents who have exhausted their assets. In more than 76 years of serving older adults, no resident has ever had to leave a Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey community because he or she can no longer pay for care. The Foundation, with the help of Mr. Wernik and his development team, raise money to subsidize more than 300 residents every year, primarily in the health care centers. For further information call 1-800-222-0609 or 987-8900.

TREES REALLY AREN'T CARROTS

If you were among the fortunate to escape serious loss and damage of mature trees and shrubs this past winter, you may well want to consider a preventative measure this growing season.

Deep-root FERTILIZATION is a must for all stressed trees and shrubs. As you may be aware, a tree's root system is wider than it is deep. The majority of roots are only about 18 inches below ground level. As we all witnessed with the Nor'easter of '92, the devastation in our area was severe. If growing things in your garden haven't been fed in the last two years, give serious consideration to fertilization.

Signs of overly stressed root systems and root starvation can be observed by looking for dead twigs, dying branches, poor leaf development and dull looking bark. Remember, also, that under-fed trees are extremely susceptible to rot disease and insect attack.

Do call WOODWINDS (924-3500) for a consultation concerning your valuable trees and shrubs. We will offer professional recommendations and suggestions that can be beneficial to your garden.

Adequate Funds Needed To Support Civil Rights

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The response of elected officials to my resignation last week from the Joint Commission on Civil Rights diverts attention from the pressing needs in our community which the recommended modest increase in the Director's salary would have gone some distance in alleviating.

Princetonians hardly need to be reminded that a quarter of a century after the establishment of the JCCR, racism and other forms of bias and discrimination remain deeply rooted in our community. Hopes for racial and income diversity are being dashed by a tightened housing market, thereby reinforcing traditional patterns of segregation.

In addition to suffering indignities at the hands of the police and business establishments, African-Americans and other minorities consider that their children are too likely to receive a second-class education in our public schools.

Our growing Hispanic population and other recent migrants suffer systematic mistreatment and prejudice in the workplace and housing rentals. Many of our elderly also face bias and discrimination. Recent events at the high school suggest that gender discrimination and sexual harassment remain to be addressed in a coherent manner.

Finally, our police officers are almost exclusively white men. Neither governing board, despite the welcome recent appointments of women and minorities, has yet to signal in concrete fashion a commitment over the long term to more inclusive police departments.

I am very confident that the Joint Commission on Civil Rights will continue to engage in the careful discussions, lobbying, and public education necessary to address these problems. Whether our elected officials will listen and respond with adequate resources and open public support for their work remains to be seen.

Township Office Complex A $9 Million Outrage

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Last week the Township Committee took the first step toward making a $9 million capital expenditure for a new municipal office complex. Just a few short months ago this plan was a six digit retrofitting project and, possibly, a wing to the existing police building.

The new plan, if completed, would translate into a 10 percent increase in property taxes (or a multiple of that for older homes about to be reassessed) on top of the already debilitating tax burden on the town's oppressed taxpayers.

The population of Princeton is becoming poorer. The economy has taken a heavy toll on the region. Major employers are laying off employees who no longer have pay checks to fund tax bills that seem to grow relentlessly, even without reckless action by town government. Retired citizens have few options left. Huge new expenditure proposals like the library expansion, the Institute Woods and the next installment of required construction at Griggs Farm loom large on the horizon.

Now, while the rest of the economy is contracting, our municipal government is considering building $9 million

University Should Restore Garden Theatre

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following is a copy of a letter sent to President Harold Shapiro, Princeton University.

It was with great dismay that I read in a recent issue of TOWN TOPICS that Princeton University intends to sell the Garden Theatre. Despite the unfortunate tenancy by the Eric Theatre chain over the past few years, the Garden is truly a fixture in our community and deserves to be maintained as a venue for films and possibly other artistic events.

There is no question that Princeton University's credibility as a good neighbor has been sorely tried in the last decade, especially when one considers the disastrous sale of Palmer Square, with the attendant upheaval of long-time shopkeepers to be replaced by shops with no community loyalty and, indeed, no longevity to speak of.

And we are still suffering from the incredible eyesore of the northern reaches of Palmer Square — concrete walls, unfinished plots and weeds. Many of us are still smarting from the callous way in which the sale of Palmer Square was handled, including the fait accompli of tearing down the Princeton Playhouse in spite of our best efforts to save it.

It seems to me that the University might be well-advised to put its best foot forward and show its concern for the community in which it finds itself by restoring the Garden to its former one-theater facility and programming foreign films, art films and film festivals.

There is no doubt in my mind that such a move would do much to redress the balance of University-community relations — and I feel quite sure that such an imaginative effort on the University's part would indeed turn a profit as well. In addition to a large student body that is always interested in quality films, townspeople as well would be eager customers.

I do urge you to take another look at the fate of the Garden Theatre before it is turned into yet another bank, office or superfluous shop. This could be the chance for Princeton University to do something really creative and positive for all of us.

MRS. PETER M. GROSZ

worth of new office space. Representatives of the people sensitive to the plight of their constituency should not even think about such a plan. Even expenditures for architectural drawings are premature at this time.

Monday night, in face of public outcry, the first step to retreat from that process was taken with the return to the taxpayers of $128,000 that some Committee members wanted to dedicate to the $9 million outrage.

However, the town has no objective ombudsman and the Township Committee is still pursuing this course, in part, to meet the ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) deadline of January, 1995, and, in part, to qualify for a $1.7 million low-interest loan which the State has offered if construction is started by September 30. This plan has not been either properly studied or properly offered for review to the public.

Accordingly, a committee of concerned citizens for fiscal responsibility has been formed to bring attention to the municipal expenditure process, to alert the public to insidious legislative proposals which affect the welfare of our town, and to stop the relentless cancerlike growth of our tax burden.

The Committee proposes:

1. That the Township Committee open up the issue of the need for municipal facilities improvement to an open, objective and prudent analysis, debate and review, giving equal attention to the economic impact on the town and its citizens and the ability of its taxpayers to bear any new expenditure.

2. That the $9 million dollar municipal offices project be deferred until such review has been completed and the responsible course of action be decided on. Most importantly, the refurbishing of the existing facilities should be given adequate attention and cost reviews.

3. That, following the foregoing, the Township Committee devote a major portion of its time scrutinizing every line item of the town's budget in open forum with a view toward reducing the tax burden on its citizens.

4. That the Township Committee commit to alert the public to every new proposal for material expenditure or impact at its inception, to solicit such public involvement, to invite criticism by citizens and to

Abuse & Disrespect Must Not Be Tolerated

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter I have sent to William Johnson, principal, John Witherspoon School.

The attached article from the New York Times ("For Some, Rituals of Abuse Replace Youthful Courtship," Sunday, July 11, Page 1) refers to a situation [boys demonstrating their manhood by abusing or showing disrespect to girls] that has disturbed me among the middle-schoolers I see here at Princeton.

I'm sure you have already read the article, but I am sending it along with the strong suggestion that you encourage your teachers to find some way to include a discussion of this article, and the attitudes and behavior it describes, with their students in the fall.

I know many parents are reluctant to interfere with what we perceive as "just the way kids act these days," and many kids are exasperated by what they perceive as the stuffiness of parents and other adults.

But the habits described in this article — which are all too familiar to me — are really harmful. They are not merely disrespectful in form, they reveal a profound and important disregard for other people. When we tolerate these habits of speech and behavior, we give kids the message that the objectification and degradation of others is acceptable in our society.

I will try to discuss this article with my children, but a school discussion that involves peers and teachers would make an even stronger impression. I hope you will give this request serious consideration.

consider their welfare as tax payers.

Another hastily made expenditure like Griggs Farm is not what Princeton needs at this time. We invite all conscientious and concerned citizens to join up in this effort.

time has finally come when the people must get into the act.

Civil Rights Matter: Let's Listen to Everyone

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Given last week's front page story (TOWN TOPICS, July 21) about the struggle between members of the Joint Commission on Civil Rights and their governing officials, perhaps the best that can come from this is a public airing of the question of civil rights in Princeton in general.

Personalities and individual actions aside, the point we should not lose sight of is this: civil rights matter. Civil rights are easily taken for granted by those who have them; yet a serious undercurrent of social resentment can result among those who don't. The issue of civil rights is tearing our country apart, and the problem is getting worse.

To think that Princeton is immune to this danger is naive and blind. Many local teachers and police will tell you this, as will those public officials who know well the neighborhoods where minorities live and understand the special challenges they face.

As with so many problems of conflict, the best answer is to listen to all sides. Let's hear well what everyone has to say, including those who are reluctant to speak, either because they don't feel they're ever really heard, or because they don't feel they know our ways or our language well enough. And let's listen well to ourselves, as we talk to our children, as we say what we believe, as we act on our beliefs.

Now is a decisive moment for Princeton, a time to move from a controversial past to a united, committed future where, regardless of one's present point of view, we all agree to listen to every side, to ask questions about fairness in our community, and to examine our attitudes.

Who can better help us listen to others and hear ourselves than an effective Civil Rights Commission Director, competent, pro-active, and supported by local government. Listening is a safe, respectful, intelligent way to confront issues before they flare into something more threatening.

It suits Princeton, with the image we like to preserve about our town, to approach problems in this enlightened manner.

Development Will Destroy The Port Mercer Area

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The shadows over our Princeton countryside are deepening. The latest pending disaster will overwhelm Port Mercer, the charming enclave at the Canal. The Delaware & Raritan Canal Park in that region is an important flyway of migratory songbirds and a much loved recreational part of Princeton's surroundings.

The bulldozers will begin soon to remove trees and meadows to make room for another huge shopping center and offices. No amount of burms will hide the complete destruction of all the land between the Canal and Route 1.

Are we not blessed with shopping centers in that area? There is across from this latest project, Mercer Mall; across Route 1 is Quaker Bridge Mall; and nearby is the MarketFair; and a few minutes further north is the Forrestal Center. Wall Mart, the mall which will come in at Port Mercer, is already building a mall in New Brunswick.

Port Mercer will not survive this latest project. It will be suffocated by traffic and noise, even if additional bridges will be built.

How many of the already existing malls are thriving? How many small stores struggle against bankruptcy? Must we lose this special stretch of history and open space because another huge chain store wants to expand its presence in Central New Jersey?

We grieve over the destruction of the world's rainforests. But we are powerless here as well to save this piece of New Jersey. How sad to realize that powerful financial interests dictate which open space can survive. Port Mercer, certainly, would have deserved to remain with us and future generations.

Mayors Are Responsive To Civil Rights Issues

To the Editor of Town Topics: I have read of the resignation of Michael Jimenez from our Civil Rights Commission, although I am not surprised at this and must agree with Mayor Reed in being aware of the fact Mr. Jimenez was leaving this position during the winter.

Although I hate to see this situation at this time, it's no surprise. I will not question Mr. Jimenez's reason for this departure. I'm more interested in this so-called new direction spoken of during his tenure on the commission.

Also, I will clear up one question. Mr. Jimenez states, referring to mayors and councils, "They just don't seem to respond, they don't get it." I must disagree with this if the reference is to the mayors in response to issues raised in my community.

I have met and corresponded with both of our mayors on issues concerning this community, and both of the mayors have looked into issues, and changed what was in their power.

This time last year police-minority hiring was an issue. I was assured this would be dealt with in a timely manner, and indeed it was. There have been other issues brought to these mayors' attention as well, and I have confidence something will be done with them as well. The mayors have no problem responding to concerns I know of — maybe councils, but not the mayors.

I am saddened by those on our civil rights commission who feel money or wages should be an issue in the service our community should get. Personally, I don't feel the director should be paid any more than Ms. Hill was paid to begin this position. Civil rights is not about money. Payment should be what you can do for your people, and how this makes one feel. This bickering about money is silly, and has no place.

The Civil Rights Commission itself should stop "foot-dragging" and get to the problems of this community as a whole. It seems everyone has a

Church & Dwight Plans For Expansion Troubling

To the Editor, Town Topics: As Princeton Township residents, we have been reading the recent flurry of articles regarding expansion plans at Church & Dwight with interest. Church & Dwight has made a global impact with its environmentally attuned products, but local homeowners question whether the company affords the same consideration to Princeton.

Church & Dwight plans to build additional laboratories, offices and parking spaces within 50 feet of a protected New Jersey wetland. Residents at the Governor's Lane townhomes should know that from their windows they will view open parking lots lit by large halogen lamps and travelers on Harrison Street will navigate through a larger volume of traffic.

Members of the Wetlands Oversight Alliance, on behalf of the general public, ask the following:

- Can the company achieve locally what we have come to expect across the nation — an undisturbed environment?

- Has Church & Dwight considered other alternatives with lower impact on the environment? How were they evaluated?

The Wetlands Oversight Alliance was formed to provide Princeton area residents with a network of support for important local issues. Call 252-0222 for more information.

price to do what should be done for a poor community. I've had enough of the foot-dragging. It's no secret I'm not overly fond of this commission to begin with, but this will not stop me from doing my work for our community in making our community aware of what is going on in town hall.

The commission has yet to tackle an issue in this community of importance to this day. We'd like to see a commission we can believe in that wants to help. We do not want to see what we are seeing in bickering, and crying about their superiors. The job of civil rights should be no harder than it's made. I've said many times in the past, if the Civil Rights Commission cannot do the job, then they should resign, and let someone else attempt to do it.

Meetings between yourselves is not doing it either. We need you in the community finding out what the people have to say. We don't need desk sitters. We need protection. I question the effectiveness of the commission over the winter due to what I knew to be true. Not much has changed. So far I see 10 people living large, much different than those they are supposed to help, and have not done one thing since they formed, except complain of their bosses.

Oh! they did catch the train concerning the police-minority hiring issue. Many say to me, how come you don't get on the commission? We'd get something done? This might be true, but I believe I'm getting something done now, and I hate getting fired, or being told my free speech is limited. I call it how I see it — the truth is not always the light. The truth can hurt.

In conclusion, I cannot blame the mayors and councils for our woes. I can only blame those put there to represent us before our mayors and councils. I do know I've had no problem talking to Mayor Reed or Mayor Glasberg if I had something to say. Mayor Reed has an open door policy, and Mayor Glasberg has no problem meeting with you as citizens.

Let's move on and get the job done

Ordinance Will Help Those Who Lack Parking

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Parking problems seem to be a very unpleasant part of Borough life. And parking for residents who have no on-site parking is a particularly difficult hardship.

In October 1992, another Borough homeowner and myself, who have no on-site parking, asked the Mayor and Borough Council to consider amending the current ordinance to allow parking for one car in the front yard set-back along with careful landscaping requirements.

A draft ordinance is scheduled for discussion and possible introduction at the Borough Council meeting on Tuesday, July 27. This ordinance will allow parking in the front of the property but not directly in front of the house, unless there is a garage.

I am pleased that this draft ordinance, if passed, will help approximately 140 Borough residents. For example, residents of five townhouses on Humbert Street who need to be able to park a second car in front of their attached garage will now be able to do so.

I, as a citizen and homeowner, would like to request that Mayor and Council work in the same manner to alleviate the parking hardships of those homeowners who will not be helped by the provisions of this new ordinance, if passed. More can be done.

We have come a long way in helping many property owners. I only hope the work will continue in the same way. Maybe, this is a good time to examine all zoning ordinances that create unnecessary hardships to our Borough residents.

Fundamental Question: The Value of Civil Rights

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Princeton Borough Council's deliberations July 22 demonstrated Princeton municipal government's continuing ambivalence about its commitment to a civil rights program.

As the Princetons continue their search for a new director of the municipal civil rights program, the municipal civil rights commission requested that Mayor and Council permit the Borough Administrator to negotiate a salary for the new director up to the limit at which the position had been previously classified by salary ordinance — $36,800.

In so doing, the commission explicitly asked Mayor and Council not to fund the civil rights directorship at some arbitrary lower limit than that already ordained.

Although expressing vague statements of support for civil rights, Mayor and Council rejected the Commission's request.

By declining to explicitly decide the maximum compensation to be received by a new civil rights director, municipal government is avoiding public debate about the fundamental question: at what level of funding do the Princetons value their civil rights program?

The community — its residents, taxpayers and voters — deserve an answer.

or a modification of an application that is the subject of an appeal to the governing body in the absence of a hearing and remand to the board.

To review the history of this controversial matter: On December 16, 1992, the Zoning Board approved a use variance permitting a 526-car addition to the existing garage on Henry Avenue. As originally proposed, the addition extended along Henry Avenue toward Harris Road and required the removal of four residential houses on Harris Road owned by the Medical Center and used as offices.

Upset by the removal of the houses and the incursion of a large parking structure into a residential neighborhood, neighbors formed People for the Preservation of Residential Princeton (PPRP) in January and filed an appeal to Township Committee, asking that it overturn the approval.

Committee postponed hearing the appeal, knowing that the Planning Board had formed a committee to investigate whether the conditions relating to parking that were part of its approval of the new "B Wing" had been adequately met. One of the conditions was that an ad hoc committee of hospital representatives and neighbors would explore parking needs and solutions.

When the ad hoc committee reported that this condition had not been satisfactorily met, the Planning Board then asked it to continue to meet with the neighbors to find "creative solutions" to the hospital's parking needs. After meeting several times with residents and representatives of the Medical Center, the majority of the ad hoc committee recommended that the Medical Center scale back the garage and redesign it to minimize the impact on the residential neighborhood.

The Medical Center agreed to pull the Harris Road facade back to the line of the existing on-grade parking lot and to scale back the third level with a further set-back. The minority of the ad hoc committee wanted no garage to be built "at this time." By a 4 to 3 vote, the Planning Board endorsed the majority recommendation over the objections of the neighbors, who asked that no garage be built or that the decision be deferred.

Scaled Back Garage

At the time, Christopher Tarr, attorney for Princeton Medical Center in this application, said the Medical Center would move ahead with the scaled back garage. It was understood that the revised plans would have to be reviewed by the Township and Borough zoning boards, because a bulk variance is needed, even with a smaller garage, and because the garage straddles both municipalities.

Mr. Goldman maintains in his letter to the Zoning Board that "by virtue of the [neighbors'] appeal to the governing body, the Zoning Board is deprived of jurisdiction, and the file falls under the control of the governing body until a decision is rendered. The right to appeal, including the requirement that the appeal be severely undermined if the file and record could be modified or amended piecemeal during the pendency of the appeal."

He further states that no agreement about the garage had been reached between the parties, and that his clients had hoped to sit down and negotiate with Princeton Medical Center. He complains that the plans for a smaller garage were not available to his clients until late June after the initial version had been filed with the Zoning Board. The neighbors assumed they were "discussion documents," he writes, adding that they "depart" from the proposal presented informally to the Planning Board last spring.

"My clients have serious objections and have been preparing to present alternatives," Mr. Goldman writes. If the Zoning Board does not agree with his interpretation of the jurisdictional issue, he asks that the entire matter be postponed until September, a request that has now been agreed to. In a second letter to Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmieder he asks that the residents' appeal be returned to the active docket.

If the Zoning Board decides that it may legally review the modified application while an appeal on the original application is pending, it will be reviewing a garage designed for 428 cars instead of 526. This has been achieved by pulling back the Harris Road facade and by stepping back the upper levels of the deck behind the Harris Road houses.

Moving an underground water detention basin and reducing it in size will save one of the buildings which would have been removed, according to Mr. Tarr. Moving oxygen storage tanks and using smaller ones is also contributing toward reduction in the overall size of the garage addition.

In April, the Medical Center agreed to renovate the exterior of the Harris Road buildings

The neighbors have distributed a yellow "Action Alert" flyer stating that "Again, the Medical Center has a vacation surprise that threatens your home and our neighborhood. Despite our pending appeal to the Township Committee and with minimum notice, the Medical Center has asked the Zoning Board to approve another garage!"

Civil Rights

The commission is seeking a new director to replace Joan Hill, who was dismissed in February.

Early in the Council meeting, Mayor Marvin Reed raised the question of whether Borough Council and Township Committee would agree to hire at a higher salary level than has been budgeted. The Civil Rights Commission, a joint agency, is funded equally by the Borough and Township.

The Mayor said that Township Committee now supports a much greater degree of salary flexibility than it did earlier this year, but that it would still not go to the top of the range.

"We have to take civil rights against all the other services the town expects," said Councilman Mark Freda. He added that the majority of Borough Council and Township Committee members have already indicated they are willing to move up on the budgeted salary of $25,509, but that it was critical for the governing bodies to know the kind of civil rights program they were getting.

Mr. Freda said he imagined the new director's salary would wind up somewhere in the middle of range.

Romona Huff, who replaced Mr. Jimenez as chair of the Civil Rights Commission, said she agreed with Mr. Freda that there should be a better job description for the new director. "When we get a person worthy of being hired, we should give them something so that they know what they're doing," she said.

The one candidate for the director's position interviewed so far has been withdrawn by Borough Administrator Thomas Shannon. He plans to confer with Ms. Huff and other members of the Civil Rights Commission to review candidates and to decide whether to accept any additional applications.

Forty Applications

As of last week, 40 persons had applied for the job. Two-thirds had either a law degree, advanced degrees, and significant experience, said Mr. Jimenez.

Mr. Jimenez' resignation on July 19 brought sharp words from Mayor Reed, who accused him of completely ignoring the agreement on funding reached early in the year by Borough Council and Township Committee, and of trying to increase the civil rights budget by 70 percent.

But on Thursday night, the Mayor said he wanted to extend his personal appreciation to Mr. Jimenez for the efforts he put into the Civil Rights Commission. "He carried us through some difficult times," the Mayor said.

Mayor and Council appointed Thomas A. Parker, 16 Green Street, to replace Mr. Jimenez on the Civil Rights Commission. He is employed in the mail services unit at Princeton University and serves as president of Local 175, the service employees' union at the University.

Mr. Parker is former director of the Paul Robeson Center, the youth program which operated out of the Borough Community Building at 102 Witherspoon Street, and is currently president of the Princeton Nursery School.

female, two were black males, two were Hispanic males, and one was an Asian male.

Police Chief Thomas Michaud said that white males have dominated the group of finalists in years past, and that he was including women among minority groups, "because they certainly are a minority in the police department."

In this round of hiring, an African-American male came in first, a white female second, a white male third, and an Hispanic male fourth. The candidate who came in third was the only white male among the first six finalists.

This list will remain active for 18 months, should the police need to hire additional officers.

The new recruits are expected to start August 4 and begin their training at the Police Academy on August 16.

"The process followed this time proved that, with aggressive recruiting, we can get a diversified applicant pool," said Mayor Reed.

OBITUARIES

Blanchard W. Bates, professor emeritus of Romance languages and literatures at Princeton University, died July 21 of cancer at his home on Chebeague Island, Maine. He was 85.

Prof. Bates was a scholar of French Renaissance literature, with a strong interest in Italian literature of the same period. His principal publications included two books, Literary Portraiture in the Historical Narrative of the French Renaissance (1945), and the Modern Library edition of Montaigne's Selected Essays (1949), which he edited with a critical introduction and which served as the standard edition for American readers for many years.

In addition to teaching courses for graduate students and undergraduates, Prof. Bates directed the Special Program in European Civilization, an interdepartmental program whose goal was to strengthen students' command of cultural interpretation through seminars in history, literature, art and philosophy. He also was active with a program called Princeton in France, which helped students find summer jobs abroad.

As chairman of his department's library committee, he helped build the collections in Romance languages and literatures at Firestone Library.

A native of Portland, Maine, he graduated from Bowdoin College in 1931 and earned his Ph.D. at Princeton in 1941. After a year as an exchange teacher in La Rochelle, France, he taught languages for three years at the Fresno Ranch School, Tucson, Ariz. He joined the Princeton faculty in 1937 as an instructor.

Energetic & Spirited Production of "West Side Story" Graces the Open Air Stage at Washington Crossing

The concept of gang warfare definitely has different connotations now than it did a number of years ago when West Side Story first hit the stage, but there is always something special about seeing onstage the original Jets and the Sharks. Leonard Bernstein's music from West Side Story is one of the best-known of all Broadway scores, and there is not a musical theater company in existence which does not feel the urge to present this masterpiece at some point.

The Broadway Bound Theatre Company brought their interpretation of this theatrical classic to Washington Crossing State Park's Open Air Theatre this past weekend to a Friday-night full house. Director Linda Kay used the full space of the outdoor theater in a clever manner, with all scenes combined on the one stage as her good-sized cast of singers and dancers found its way through the score. Immediately noticeable about this production was the high calibre of male actors, a refreshing sight in community theater, where it is often difficult to find men willing to appear in shows.

The emphasis in West Side Story is on music and dance, with more technical skill required for the latter than the former. Jerome Robbins' choreography for this show is legendary, and as it is difficult to imagine these songs with any other movement, Ms. Kay used much of Mr. Robbins' work as a basis for her own interpretation of the score. The eight men cast as the Jets, and the six actors cast as their counterparts, the Sharks, were immediately impressive in their dance skills and the incorporation of gymnastics into the routines. A little honing of their synchronization, which will no doubt come through repetition of the show, will make their presentation flawless.

News of the THEATRES

Less critical for the male actors is their ability to sing, overridden by their need to dance well and convey the rawness of their characters. Although some of the men were not the best of singers, the ensemble numbers worked well, especially the Jet and Shark signature songs and "Officer Krupke."

Appealing Lovers

The love story in West Side Story belongs to Tony and Maria, played by Todd Fenstermaker and Amy Puzzo, respectively. These are singers with light, appealing voices who carry their roles well, in visual as well as vocal terms. Ms. Puzzo is an especially attractive Maria. Both of these singers were the unfortunate victims of some technical problems with the sound system, which hopefully will be worked out in subsequent performances.

The role of Anita, Maria's sister, was played by an outstanding singer — Michelle Carano — who obviously has a great deal of professional experience onstage. Her songs are low and difficult and were carried off extremely well. Unfortunately, the spoken actors were not identified in the program, but the roles of Doc and Officer Krupke, crucial to the conflict of the show, were well played.

Musical Director Mark Weissman had prepared his singers extremely well, with some especially nice ensemble numbers from the men, but the accompaniment of piano and percussion was insufficient to carry the musical drama of this production. A number of times the soloists needed more accompaniment to carry off their songs, and much of the intensity of Leonard Bernstein's music was lost in the minimally-amplified piano.

However, such ensemble numbers as "America" and "Cool" were full of energy and drive.

The full house in attendance on Friday night (a perfect night for an outdoor show) were well entertained by this energetic and spirited production. With technical glitches kept to a minimum and the weather kept at its present level, audiences in the closing weekend of West Side Story should find the show every bit as enjoyable.

West Side Story continues its run at Washington Crossing State Park's Open Air Theatre this Wednesday through Saturday. For ticket information, call the Open Air Theater at 737-1826.

Albemarle Music Director Steps Down After 23 Years

Anton Armstrong, director of Albemarle Music Camp, will be saying good-bye Saturday after 23 consecutive seasons at the music camp — a coed summer program of the American Boychoir School.

For the last 13 years Dr. Armstrong has served as music director and senior administrator. The end-of-camp concert will be held Saturday at 11 a.m. at Miller Chapel, Princeton Theological Seminary.

An alumnus of The American Boychoir School, where he served as head boy during his final year, 1970-71, Dr. Armstrong credits the Boychoir with giving focus to his love of music. After graduating from St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., he went on to earn a master of music degree from the University of Illinois, and a doctor of musical arts in choral conducting from Michigan State University.

Dr. Armstrong taught music for ten years at Calvin College in Grand Rapids, Mich. and was director of the Alumni Choir and the Grand Rapids Symphony Chorus. He also served as conductor of the St. Cecilia Youth Chorale. But every summer he returned to Princeton, to Albemarle Camp — often bringing his college music students as counselors.

Dr. Armstrong is currently conductor of the St. Olaf Choir, and associate professor of Music at St. Olaf College, his alma mater. Just before coming to camp this June he returned from a special concert tour to Norway where the St. Olaf Choir participated in the Grig Sesqui-Centennial Celebration.

This is also the final year for Todd DeStigter, camp director, who will complete his 12th season with this session. Next semester Mr. DeStigter will be in Santiago, Chile, studying Spanish. He will return to Ann Arbor to teach, and research and write his dissertation on literacy for his Ph.D. at the University of Michigan.

Final Chamber Concert By Waterloo Faculty

The Waterloo at Princeton Chamber Music Series will present its sixth and final concert of the season on Friday at 8:30 in Richardson Auditorium.

Gerard Schwarz will conduct the Waterloo Chamber Orchestra in two Bach chorale preludes transcribed for instruments. The program will also include the Trio for Flute, Bassoon and Piano by Donizetti, Summer Music by Samuel Barber, and a quartet by Nikos Skalkottas. The concert will conclude with the Quintet in F Minor for piano and strings by Brahms.

Artists performing in the concert are on the faculty of the Waterloo School of Music and principal players in leading orchestras. Tickets are $10, $5 for seniors and students with a Princeton I.D. To order tickets in advance call (201) 347-0900.

The American Boychoir Will Tour South Africa

The American Boychoir will make its first major concert tour in South Africa, August 16 to September 19, with performances in Johannesburg, Capetown, Durban and Pretoria.

The American boys, ranging from 11 to 14 years old, will tour as guests of South Africa's leading boy's choir, the Drakensburg Boy Choir, with whom they will sing at the Speel Musiek Festival in Johannesburg and other cities. The festival will include a performance of Bernstein's Chichester Psalms and Haydn's "Lord Nelson" mass.

One of the highlights will be a reunion with Joseph Shabalala, known to American audiences for his work with Paul Simon on the "Graceland" album and their live concerts together. Mr. Shabalala, a friend of the Boychoir, is active with Ladysmith Black Mambazo, and lives in Ladysmith where the Boychoir will sing a concert.

The first two South African concerts will be at the Linder Auditorium in Johannesburg and another just outside the city. After a performance at the State Theater in Pretoria and two schools in Soweto, the choir will fly to East London, Port Elizabeth and Capetown for concerts in those cities. The 32 boys will spend two days in Kruger National Park and will also have a day for sightseeing and relaxing in the mountains near Ladysmith.

In early September, the choir will participate in the Children's Choir Festival in Bloemfontein before flying back to Johannesburg for a performance at the Music Festival. In Pretoria, they will perform at the American Embassy and at Pietermaritzburg with an orchestra and the Drakensburg Boys' Choir before flying home on September 19.

Subscriptions on Sale For Music-at-McCarter

William W. Lockwood Jr., Director of Special Programming, has announced the concerts scheduled for McCarter Theatre's 1993-94 Music Series.

Music Series A, which was sold out to subscribers this past season, will open on October 11 with an evening of chamber music with the Guarneri String Quartet. Pianist Alicia De Larrocha will perform in a joint recital with the Orpheus Chamber Orchestra on November 14. On April 4, violinist Joshua Bell, only in his 20s but recognized as a violinist whose artistry transcends the boundaries of age, will give a solo concert.

Music Series A will conclude with two solo piano concerts. Andras Schiff, regarded as one of the foremost musicians of his generation, will present a program on Janacek and Schumann on April 25, and Andre Watts will perform on May 16.

Music Series B will open with the pianist Richard Goode, presenting an all-Beethoven program, on November 1. 11 Musici will follow with a program of all-Italian Baroque music, including Vivaldi's The Four Seasons, on January 24. Violinist Pinchas Zuckerman will perform a recital with pianist Marc Neikrug on February 28.

All concert dates are Monday evenings and all performances will begin at 8.

Subscriptions for Music Series A or B are now available for as little as $125 for five concerts. Subscriptions for all ten concerts in Series A and B begin at $240. Remaining tickets for individual events will go on sale in September.

Subscriptions may be purchased by phone or in person from the McCarter Theatre Subscription Office, 91 University Place. The phone number is 683-8900.

Brahms Gala Weekend At Rutgers Summerfest

The music and life of Johannes Brahms will be explored in a series of performances and lectures this Thursday through Saturday at 8 p.m. in Nicholas Music Center of Rutgers Arts Center, George Street at Route 18 in New Brunswick. For information or to charge tickets by phone, call the Rutgers Arts Ticket Office at (908) 932-7511.

This Festival Weekend focuses on Brahms' particular absorption of his musical heritage, and, in presenting his most autumnal late works, seeks to show Brahms as precursor of the early 20th century.

The performances are complemented with the pre-concert Discovery Lecture Series titled "The Stories That Bind Us" at 7 p.m. in Nicholas Music Center. Led by Robert Kapilow, these discussions will seek to redefine the audience's perceptions of Brahms by re-examining in detail the legacy of the composer.

Tickets are $18, and $9 for Rutgers students. Call for group discounts. The lectures are free.

SPORTS

Legion Season Is Over For Posts 218 and 76

The 1993 season ended in opposite ways for Princeton Post 218 and Princeton Post 76 in the Mercer County American Legion League.

For Post 218 the direction was up, as it won its final two games — both by 2-1 scores. For Post 76, it was down. It lost its final two games, including a four-hit pitching gem by Gary Botto to Hamilton Post 31 on the final day. Both teams ended with identical 8-19 records, 13 games off the lead and well out of contention for one of the six post-season playoff spots.

For Post 218, however, its fourth season in the league represented a step up. Its eight wins were one more than it had won in all of its first three years. Its 2-1 win over North Trenton in its season's finale was in sharp contrast to last year's finale when it suffered a 16-2 drubbing at the hands of Ewing for its 21st loss in a row.

And because he has a lot of veterans returning in 1994 to provide some much needed seasoning, something the team has lacked, manager Tom Parker's fifth season promises to be even better.

Parker was quick to agree. "I think it looks real good," he said. "I was real pleased with the way we played in the second half of the season. We have a lot of guys returning with experience. I'm really looking forward to next year."

"We had a sophomore behind the plate (Scott Muzyk), a freshman at shortstop (Nathan Dean), a sophomore at third most of the season (Kyle Mapps). Mike Procaccini (second base) and Geoff Spies (first) are the 'old men' on the team and they're both juniors." Another junior, Reggie Wright, returns from the outfield.

Parker loses only four to the legion age limit: Matt DeVeau, a three-year veteran center fielder and a consistent .300 hitter; Dan Wilson, a four-year starter infielder/pitcher; Sam Boraie, an outfielder from Hun School and the team's leading base stealer, and pitcher Derek Kaczmarek, who gained his first win in the final game of the season. "He pitched an excellent five innings," said Parker.

As for the final two one-run wins over North Trenton and Hightstown — "Two great wins ... two exciting games," said Parker, who recalled that he told his players before the final contest: "We're making history. We're definitely going to win more games than we ever have before."

First Win for Kaczmarek

If the claim is true that the last game of the season is the one you remember the longest, Post 218 will have fond memories to treasure all winter of its close win over North Trenton.

After failing to win a decision all season, Post 218 hurler Derek Kaczmarek yielded an RBI single to Post 458's DH Mike Laudenberger in the first inning but then slammed the door tight. He allowed just two more hits and struck out four in the five innings he worked to get the win. Jeff Tantom hurled the sixth inning and did not allow a hit and Wilson came on to blank North Trenton in the final inning.

Post 218 tied the game on Wilson's solo homer in the fourth and pushed over the Here's an oddity ... Professional baseball and college football — by coincidence — BOTH started in EXACTLY the same year ... The first pro baseball team — the Cincinnati Reds — started playing in 1869 and, oddly, the first college football game in history, Princeton vs. Rutgers, was also played in 1869.

See if you can answer this sports question ...

There's a team sport where the rules REQUIRE one player to wear a different-color uniform than the rest of his teammates ... What sport is that? ... The rules in soccer say the goalkeeper MUST wear different colors than the rest of his team.

What's the highest fly ball any baseball player ever caught? ... The world record is held by 2 former Cleveland Indian catchers, Frankie Pytlak and Henry Helf, who caught balls dropped from the 708-foot-high Terminal Tower in Cleveland in 1938 ... The balls were traveling about 140 miles per hour when Pytlak and Helf caught them!

game-winner an inning later when back-to-back bunt singles by Procaccini and DeVeau plated Reggie Wright.

The win over Hightstown the previous day was a carbon copy of the finale: good defense, timely hitting and solid pitching. Visiting Post 218 scored both its runs in the first inning when its first three batters, Procaccini, DeVeau and Spies singled to jam the bases. The two lead runners scored when Post 148 third baseman Seth Churi booted Wilson's grounder for a two-run error.

Hightstown came right back with one run in the bottom of the first on an RBI single by Pete Manukas off Post 218 hurler Jeremy Rathbone, but that was to be all. Rathbone was in command the rest of the way, scattering seven hits, fanning four and walking two in a route-going performance. The win was his second.

Procaccini and DeVeau combined for four of Princeton's seven hits. Spies, Muzyk and Wright had the other three.

Ending with a Whimper

Post 76's finale with Hamilton was typical of a lot of games for the 76ers. It was a game they should have won.

Gary Botto limited the front-running Hamilton team to just three hits. All three of Hamilton's runs in its 3-1 win were unearned. The difference: Post 76 committed four errors. Hamilton none.

"We made some very basic mistakes and hurt ourselves," said Post 76 manager Jerry Price. "We got a lot of hits (nine), but not a lot of runs."

Hamilton scored once in the first, combining a fielding error, throwing error, hit batsman and sacrifice fly. It scored what was to be the winning run in the second, again without a hit, off an error, two wild pitches and a fielder's choice.

The workhorse of Post 76's injury-riddled pitching staff, Botto fanned five and walked three in losing for the sixth time against four wins. Phil Ledesma, Nick Hsieh and John Ramirez each had two hits for the losers.

The previous day, Ewing blanked Post 76, 6-0, behind the pitching of Jermaine Parker (6-1), who scattered five Princeton hits. With the shutout, Parker lowered his league-leading earned run average.

Ed Upson had two of Post 76's five hits. Starter B.J. Rutkowski, the first of three 76 pitchers, went 5 $\frac{2}{3}$ innings and was tagged for all six Ewing runs. But he was the victim of a porous defense, as Post 76 was again guilty of five errors in the contest.

Shillaber Tops in Golf At Springdale Club

Dave Shillaber won the Springdale Golf Club Championship for the third time Sunday when he defeated defending champion Don Powell.

Shillaber needed four extra holes to do it. The 34-year-old Merrill-Lynch salesman prevailed when he two-putted the day's 40th green, the No. 4 hole, for a bogey five. Powell took himself out of it when he made a double-bogey on the par-4 hole. Both players shot a 75 in the morning round.

In the afternoon's round, Powell birdied the 6th, 7th and 8th holes to go three up at the turn but Shillaber caught him in the back nine to force the playoff. He also won the club championship in 1988 and 1979.

Bank Widens Lead: Four Teams Tied for 2nd

With two wins last week Chemical Bank widened its lead in the Summer Adult Basketball League.

Chemical Bank owns an 8-1 record but four teams are bunched in second place, two games off the pace with 5-3 marks. They are Carnevale Disposal, Custom Essence, SMB and Princeton Youth Sports.

Make-up games for rained out tilts will begin this week with three games slated for this Wednesday and two on Friday. The championship week has been pushed back to the week of August 9.

It was an exciting night Monday at the Community Park courts, as two games went into overtime. In what could be a preview of this year's title game, Chemical Bank prevailed over defending league champion, Carnevale Disposal, 54-52, in OT. Vincente Bowman and Itarry Albert led the Bankers with 15 and 14 points, while Upsala College player and former Princeton High captain Brian Williams and Erik Daniel each netted 11 for the losers.

Bergman & Barrett won its first game of the season when it nipped Gardenscapes, 58-57 in overtime, behind 28 points by Geoff Card and 12 by John Procaccini. Gardenscapes' Bill Royal tossed in a league-high 30 points and Jon Brown added 13. B&B is now 1-6, while Gardenscapes dipped to 1-9.

In a third game, Princeton Sports Medicine topped Custom Essence, 58-53. Jim Glover led PSM with 25 points, Vince Henley added 18 and Silas Massey contributed 10 for the victors. Mike D'Allegro with 21, Joe Godwin with 15 and Chris Buccelato with 12 combined to score all but five of the losers' points.

In Friday's action, Princeton Youth Sports stopped Gardenscapes, 51-47, in yet another overtime contest. Kirk Webber and Marquis Johnson, who will toil for the Princeton Iliqh quintet this winter, were high for PYS with 24 and 14 points. Bill Royal (18) and Chris Carlton (12) were the leading scorers for Gardenscapes.

SMB rolled over United Jersey Bank, 60-47, getting double-figure performances from Alberto Baptiste, who netted 15 points, Keith Jones, who had a dozen, and Clarence White, 11. Dave Cary was high for UJB with 12.

Chemical Bank handled Conte's, 71-45, as Bowman connected for 14 points, Dave Coy for 13 and Wade Itall for 12. The game had a twist: Conte's was the victim of summer vacations and had only four players. Instead of having to forfeit, however, league rules permit a team to pick a member from the crowd as long as he is not a member of any other team roster. Scott Yates, a former jayvee player at Princeton Iliqh who later moved to California, stepped out to become Conte's fifth man and not only did Yates play well, he ended up as the high scorer for Conte's with 15 points.

In games last Wednesday, Princeton Sports Medicine defeated SMB, 38-29; Princeton Youth Sports outlasted B&B, 59-56, as Dave Uitti and Webber each poured in 19 points for PYS and Card and Procaccini combined for 36 for the losers, and Carnevale Disposal held off Conte's 46-43.

In the latter, Freddie Young led Carnevale with 15 points and Marvin Tard added 12. Doug Grover (21) and former Princeton University center Rich Simkus connected for 14 points to pace Conte's.

Blue Wins Two Games, Leads in Boys' Basketball

Blue has a firm lead in the Princeton Boys Summer Basketball League, after two wins in its last two starts.

Currently, Blue has a 5-1 record, followed by Sonics at 3-3. Young Men and Suns are tied at 2-4. The final night of league play will be this Wednesday.

On Monday at Community Park, Blue tripped the Sonics, 27-23, led by 11 points from Suliaman Abdul-Karim, eight from Jay Curtis and six from Matt Terpstra. Chris Randall and Arthur Gross tossed in eight apiece for the Sonics. Two days earlier, Abdul-Karim connected for 19 points, as Blue nipped the Suns, 27-25. Ted Shoaf and Larry Lopez each netted eight for the losers.

In Monday's second game, Young Men defeated the Suns, 38-31. Shahid Abdul-Karim was the leading scorer for the victors with 16 points, followed by Max Wright with 14 and Lin Marshall with 8. Larry Lopez (15 points) and Philip King (12) were high for the Suns.

In Friday's second game, Young Men, shaking off an 0-4 start, shaded Sonies, 33-32, for its first win. Shahid Abdul-Karim was the top offensive threat again with 15 points. Teammate Max Wright added 12. The losers received balanced scoring from Maleolm Glover and Darrell Newlin (eight points each) and James Curtis, six.

Playoffs Over Quickly For Steve Ficarro Team

Move over Rodney Dangerfield. The Princeton-based Steve Ficarro Auto Body team didn't get much respect, either, last week in the Women's Softball League playoffs.

Last year's regular league champions were ousted, 8-0, in the opening round by Mercer Spring. Ficarro's collected nine hits off Mercer Spring pitcher Karen Dolan but left them all on base. Stranding runners has been a fatal habit of the team this season.

"It's been that kind of season," said second-year coach Roger Claypool. "We couldn't come through in the clutch."

An example came early. Ficarro's first two batters in the game banded out hits. The next three couldn't get the ball out of the infield. Veterans Cindy Lombardo and Donna Nicholson, however, each had two hits in three at bats for the losers.

Mercer Spring's Joanne Zola-Leiggi was the biggest thorn in the side for Ficarro's. The left-fielder had three hits in three at bats, including a home run, and drove in four runs. Sue Baker, Kim Vandergrift, Tara O'Brien and Dana Nuko all stroked two hits apiece for the victors.

When Ficarro's blanked Leonard's, 2-0, in the regular season's finale — behind a three-hitter by Carol Ann Mazzella — it ended up tied with Mercer Spring, which also won its final game. Both teams ended in fourth place in the standings with 13-11 records, but Mercer was awarded fourth because it won its regular season series with Ficarro's, two games to one.

In the other opening round playoff Thursday at Mercer Park, sixth-seeded Logo Sports upset third-seeded 3 Seasons, 9-8, in nine innings. "It could be interesting," commented Claypool.

There was also a deadlock for first place at the end of the regular season between Miller Lite, the surprise team this year, and Grove Plumbing. Grove defeated Miller, 6-1, in a playoff game to win its third league title. Both teams received opening round byes in the playoffs.

In its win over Leonards, Ficarro's was led at the plate by Ellen Leader, who went three-for-three, and by newcomer Carolyn Rodgers, who had two hits in three appearances.

Changes Planned in 1994

Both Claypool and general manager Robert Smyth agree that this has been a disappointing season for Ficarro's, which fell from 23-4 last year to an overall 13-12 this summer. "Very disappointing," echoed Claypool.

Age is finally catching up to Ficarro's, which has been on top for so long, and changes in the lineup are in the works.

Said Claypool, "It's not so much a matter of rebuilding, as it is losing some to retirement."

Six of his starters, he noted, are over 34 and one regular is 41. "Last year we won every close game we were in. This year we didn't. This year, nobody stepped up in the clutch when they needed to."

While not wanting to tip his hand or mention names prematurely, Claypool reported he has three 18-year-olds and one 19-year-old player lined up for next year. One is an all-state player on a high school team selected by the Star Ledger. Two are from a well-known softball family out of Nottingham High.

Babe Ruth Team Wins; Gross Tosses One-Hitter

The Princeton Babe Ruth team won its opening round contest Saturday in the 20-team, Invitational Tournament being held at Switlik Park in Hamilton where the Babe Ruth League was founded.

Princeton blanked Ewing, 7-0, behind the one-hit pitching of Arthur Gross. Its next start will be against Dwingtown Saturday morning at 11 at Switlik.

Gross was in complete control, as he struck out nine Ewing batters and issued just one walk. He also aided his own cause with two hits. Center-fielder Kevin Boswell chipped in with two hits, and Chris Butts and Russell Mazgut each hit safely. Mazgut contributed a standout game defensively at short and teammate Jay Curtis came up with a great play at third.

The team is coached by Henry Gross, John Curtis and Drew Ruscil.
